

Streamlining IT Procurement: Automating Standard Laptop Orders

5. Team Involvement in Demonstration

Date: 30.09.2026

Team ID: MKU201 Laptop Orders

The demonstration will be presented as a coordinated team activity under Team ID MKU201 Laptop Orders. Team members can divide the presentation into clear sections so that the project is explained consistently from business requirement to final ServiceNow result.

Team Identification

Team ID: MKU201 Laptop Orders

Project: Streamlining IT Procurement: Automating Standard Laptop Orders

Demo Date: 30.09.2026

Suggested Team Responsibilities

- Team Lead / Presenter: Introduce the problem, objective, project scope, and overall architecture.
- ServiceNow Configuration Presenter: Explain the Service Catalog item, Flow Designer trigger, Create Catalog Task action, and flow activation.
- Testing & Evidence Presenter: Demonstrate the Request, Requested Item, Catalog Task, Approval status, Hardware assignment, and screenshots.
- All team members: Be prepared to answer questions about their contribution, testing observations, and future enhancements.

Demonstration Handover Sequence

- Member 1 introduces the project and explains the business need.
- Member 2 demonstrates the ServiceNow Flow Designer configuration.
- Member 3 demonstrates the Request, Requested Item, and generated Catalog Task.
- The team closes with the result, scalability plan, and questions.

Evidence Each Member Should Know

- Service Catalog request record.
- Requested Item record.
- Active Standard laptop tasks flow.
- Generated Catalog Task.
- Approval = Approved.
- Assignment Group = Hardware.
- Short Description and Description = Laptop need to Configured.

Team Coordination Before Demo

- Agree on who controls the ServiceNow screen.
- Practice the handover between sections.
- Use the same project terminology throughout the presentation.
- Keep screenshots and the demo video available as backup evidence.
- Confirm that repository and submission links are accessible.

Final Team Outcome

The team should present one consistent story: a Standard Laptop request is placed, approval is obtained, Flow Designer processes the approved request, and a Catalog Task is created and routed to Hardware.

Supporting Evidence

The screenshot displays the ServiceNow interface for a request titled "Request - REQ0010001". The top navigation bar includes tabs for "Request", "Catalog", and "Standard laptop tasks". The main content area shows the request details, including the "Requested Items" tab. A table lists the requested items, with one item visible: "Standard Laptop" (Item ID: RITM0010001) with a quantity of 1, a price of $1,100.00, and a due date of 2026-09-23 22:37:22. The table has columns for Number, Quantity, Catalog, Item, Due date, Price, Assigned to, and Stage. The bottom status bar shows the weather as 31°C Mostly sunny and the time as 01:28 PM 26-09-2026.

Number	Quantity	Catalog	Item	Due date	Price	Assigned to	Stage
RITM0010001	1	(empty)	Standard Laptop	2026-09-23 22:37:22	$1,100.00	(empty)
